《这是谁？》

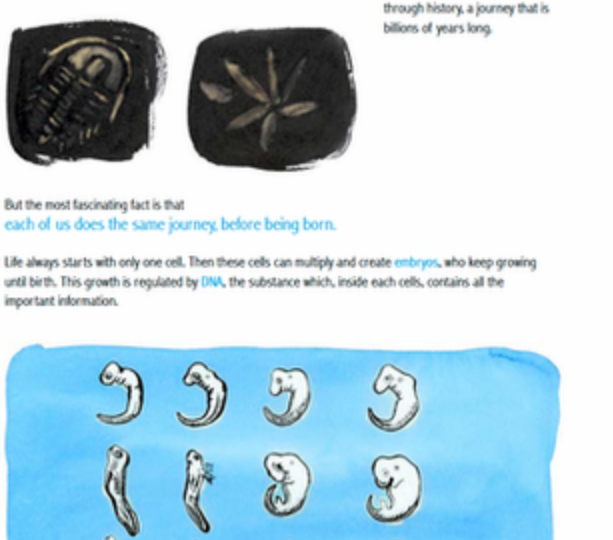

关于生命诞生的动人科普故事

全彩精装 罗萨娜·博苏 绘著
意大利语/英语样章 5岁+
23 x 30 cm 48页

一个胚胎可以发展成什么？

生命本是多样的诗意体现。
关于生长，却不止于生长。

这个正在形成的生物会是谁？如果出现鱼鳃，是否意味着它是一条鱼？如果它有脚蹼，它会是一只鸭子吗？一位生物学家和一位文雅的艺术家用我们讲述了一个最引人入胜的故事，这也是地球上所有生命的诞生历史。原来，在某一个阶段，所有脊椎动物的胚胎看起来都异常地相似。

But the most fascinating fact is that each of us does the same journey, before being born.

Life always starts with only one cell. Then these cells can multiply and create embryos, who keep growing until birth. This growth is regulated by DNA, the substance which, inside each cell, contains all the important information.

In many embryos, soon after they start developing, there is a special moment.

Scientists have compared it to the hourglass. At that point, differences almost vanish, as if those embryos could all become the same animal.

Then the hourglass becomes larger again, and each kind of embryo develops in a different way.

But in that extraordinary moment, it is really difficult to guess if it is a fish, a frog, a snake, a duck... or a human being.

It was a Saturday, and the children had a whole day to themselves.

Early in the morning, Grandma announced a visit to the photographer's studio. Then she said no more about it, simply giving them the name of the street and the number of the house.

Joseph walked around Grandma as she sat in the chair, snapping occasionally. He was trying to get the best shot in different places, before studying their effect on his model's face. As neither Grandma nor Joseph spoke while the session was going on, the children began to get bored. Jasmine wished she could walk around the studio to see a few of the interesting photos that Grandma had taken. These included, at the back, photographs of the kind found in a botanical window display, where they were carefully arranged and carefully dressed by a designer. Although Christopher was coming now, given the choice, he would have quit the studio for the sandpit in the yard.

One Thursday, a woman came to the studio. She was wearing a long coat and a hat. She had a camera and a bag. She was the photographer's assistant. She was the one who came out with the camera and the bag. She was the one who came out with the camera and the bag.

Christopher was sitting in the chair and waiting for the photographer to take his picture. He was sitting in the chair and waiting for the photographer to take his picture. He was sitting in the chair and waiting for the photographer to take his picture.
